Introduction

Dear Customers.

Hafele has pioneered the way fittings are sold in India for many years now. Being a German company, our foremost concern has always been to offer our customers, premium quality products at competitive prices paired with solution based services. On the parallel, our focus has also remained to provide optimum functionality, enabling our customers to enjoy the benefits of effective utilization of space within and around their living, working or recreational environments. As a result of this, Hafele brings to you the advantage of 'space-efficiency' with its range of Movable Wall Systems from Netherlands that bring enormous versatility and design in dividing or uniting spaces in a given area.

Our Movable Wall Systems are backed by decades of experience and leadership in manufacturing proficiency and have the technological edge to expand to any possible imagination of designers. This applies specifically to the development of flexible space-saving solutions for hotels, congress or convention centres, schools, restaurants, shopping centres along with commercial and residential spaces. Our greatest strength remains to deliver customization in applications supported by standardization in quality and functionality.

Through this catalogue we bring to you two diverse categories for different movable partition options which can be realized in various applications. The Palace series with three models – Palace 80, 90 and 110, gives you the possibility of installing MDF partitions that are extremely easy to operate, ensure excellent sound insulation and can withstand extreme temperature fluctuations. An offshoot of the Palace series is the Transpalace system that allows you to install framed glass partitions - retaining the inherent benefits while also ensuring complete transparency within the room.

The President series offers you the possibility of installing seamless movable glass walls largely required in spaces like shops, cafes and restaurants, for instance. The biggest advantage of this series is that while it allows you to enclose private spaces within an area, its virtue of transparency retains the design and aesthetics of the room. All the Movable Wall Systems from Hafele come with efficient acoustic sealing to rule out the infiltration of any external noise.

We, at Hafele, offer optimal support to see the start of every project to its end - our team is at your service not only during the design and construction process but are also available to assist you for every technical and installation consultation.

So please enjoy this handy guide to quality space-saving ideas and solutions and get in touch with us with your requirements.

All you need to know about movable walls

Movable walls allow business owners and homeowners to create the floor plan they need out of a wide-open space. Movable walls are partitions that can increase the functionality of an open area such as a loft apartment, warehouse, conference room or banquet hall. These systems can provide privacy and good acoustic insulation for work and living environments.

Uses:

Movable wall panels are an ideal way to separate areas and create privacy in a room.

- Homeowners can select wall panels that create a solid wall and door for entry into a bedroom or living area or use glass panels to define separate areas of the living space while keeping the open floor concept in the room.
- In a business environment, movable walls are a quick way to set up offices and change the layout of the building space to accommodate new workers.

 Hotels and Malls can use movable walls to create more number of functional areas within the available space – for instance, a banquet hall or a convention centre in a Hotel can double up with a movable wall partition to accommodate two functions or conferences simultaneously.

Fire Resistance

Hafele continually improves its products and invests heavily in product development. As a result of this, we are always aspiring to the needs and desires of our customers and developing new solutions for them. Keeping this in mind, we partner with only such brands who lay great emphasis on quality and innovation.

Our SLIDO Walls partner, Parthos pays close attention to the European directives concerning fire safety of building products. Fire resistance of movable walls depends on the behaviour of the wall construction when subjected to fire.

Specifically spread of flame and thermal insulation are important criteria. Various tests (in accordance with EN 1364) with renowned Institutes have proved that Parthos is able to produce a movable wall, with integrated pass door, with a 30 minutes fire resistance. A reputation is established!

So when fire resistance is a must, you have the choice of the Parthos Palace supplied in El30 or even El60 classification.

Sound Insulation

The sound insulation of a movable wall is defined by International Standard Laboratory measurements in accordance with ISO 140-3.

In building practice however, there will never be an ideal laboratory situation. The sound insulation between two rooms will always be affected by the surrounding construction. Generally the sound insulation will deviate approximately 5 to 10 dB from the laboratory measurement. Sound waves will pass through and under flooring (carpet), through walls and windows, above suspended ceilings and through ventilation ducts. These aspects must all be taken into account when selecting the appropriate wall system and the required demands of the rest of the building. Adding integrated pass door(s) also affects the sound insulation. This, in combination with proper operation and maintenance of the wall, will define whether the desired sound insulation is achieved or not.

We will help you with pleasure! Through our long experience we can advise you at the design stage in order to improve the acoustics of your room.
